(2) Disclosure Regarding Endorsements and Testimonials - None of the people quoted throughout the website, whether consumers, celebrities, experts or otherwise, have benefited in any way in return for their testimonial or endorsement of the product. Most of the endorsements are simply unsolicited emails, calls or blogs from contented customers, though some endorsements are the result of requests for feedback from customers. Often testimonials and endorsements are posted by a seller of a product and afterward there is no further contact between the endorser and the seller and no way for the seller to follow up with the endorser; therefore, it is possible that some of the endorsers no longer have the same opinion which they expressed previously. Brad Yates is taking actions to limit this possibility and they shall, upon notice of any changes, immediately reflect any such changes in their marketing materials.

He and the sites through which affiliates sell his products require that such parties are familiar with the FTC requirements and such parties also acknowledge that they are not authorized to make any claims or representations which are not authorized by Brad Yates. Unfortunately, despite the efforts of Brad Yates, it is extremely difficult to follow up on every affiliate and every posting. If you as a consumer have any questions about information being supplied by others, PLEASE contact Brad Yates directly.
